NO LONGER INVINCIBLE

Most of the crowd ferried by the BJP was from the villages of Kairana; and even on the polling day on Monday many Muslim voters returned home without voting because of malfunctioning EVMs, as they were observing 'Ramzan' fast and could not stand in heat. Everyone in BJP knows that if they don't fare well in Uttar Pradesh in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, the odds are against their returning to power at the Centre. The message is not expected to go down well with PM Modi, who is away in Indonesia to address the Shagri-La Dialogue, Asia's top defence summit.

After the highly dramatic election in Karnataka and the BJP's bid to usurp power, the country witnessed much political intrigue but it helped bring Congress and JD (S) on a common platform, which is turn became a harbinger of Opposition unity. The by-elections are also important because three out of the four Lok Sabha seats were held by the BJP. In 2014, it had won Kairana as also Bhandara-Gondia and Palghar in Maharashtra. In Palghar, the ties between the BJP and its ally Shiv Sena are strained ever since the latter decided to nominate the son of its late MP, Chintaman Wanaga, as their candidate. It is the only seat that BJP could retain. It, however, lost the Bhandara-Gondia seat to the Congress-backed NCP candidate Madhukar Kukde. The seat had fallen vacant after BJP's Nana Patole quit the party and joined the Congress. The BJP also had the consolation of winning the Tharali Assembly by-election, where it had fielded the late MLA Maganlal Shah's wife Muni Devi. But the seat was won by a slender margin.

The assembly seats won by the Congress included Shahkot in Punjab, an Akali bastion, and the Raja Rajeshwari Nagar in Bengaluru - both by a handsome margin. In a setback to Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, Shahnavaz Alam of Lalu Prasad's Rashtriya Janata Dal won the Jorkhat Assembly seat that had fallen vacant after resignation of Janata Dal (U) MLA Sarfaraz Alam on his joining the RJD. In Jharkhand, both the Jharkhand Mukti Morcha (JMM) candidates won, defeating the BJP, while the TMC won the Maheshala seat in West Bengal, trouncing BJP's Sujit Ghosh by over 60,000 votes.

Kairana: Modi's Indra ...

Ajit Singh's fold. Significantly, they have voted for a Muslim candidate. So, the real takeaway for the Opposition in Kairana is that Muslims, Dalits and Jats came on the same platform and voted for the same party - the RLD. "This win would not have been possible if Jats and Muslims, who form nearly half the population in Kairana, had not voted together." Tabassum Hasan told the media after her victory by a handsome margin of 55,000 votes. She is now the only Muslim MP from Uttar Pradesh since 2014 elections.

Of course, there was simmering anger among ugcare farmers over non-payment of their dues by the sugar mills running into crores of rupees and the failure of Modi government to create jobs, which reignited the Jat demand for reservations. Kairana's 2.5 lakh Dalits who in 2014 had also voted for the BJP played no mean role in Tabassum's triumph. The BJP along with its allies had swept 73 out of the 80 Lok Sabha seats in Uttar Pradesh in the 2014 general elections and won an overwhelming 312 seats out of a total 423 in the state assembly elections last year. All that could change of the BJP is confronted by a united Opposition.

10-day farmers' ...

The district collectors have been instructed to ensure supply of milk through Sanchi milk parlours and vegetable through wholesale market. The wholesale traders had been asked to keep enough stock of vegetables. The police are closely observing 11 farmer's organisations which may provoke violence during the stir. Police believe that the movement can go violent between 4-5 June and 8-10 June.

Sena rethink on divorce is unlikely

FP POLITICAL COMMENTATOR / MUMBAI

The BJP may draw cold comfort from its victory in Palghar, where a divided opposition worked to its advantage.

But it will now be nagged by a bigger worry: the possibility of the Shiv Sena getting drawn into the anti-BJP formulation, which has been spurred by the recent success of the 'rainbow' coalition in UP.

Not only will the Sena find it difficult to scale back its strident anti-BJP rhetoric, the fault lines will also deepen with Udhav Thackeray blaming the Election Commission for the EVM mess. The bitterness is likely to vitiate the otherwise 'cordial' relations between Udhav and CM Devendra Fadnis. This may be political posturing, but the Sena is already talking of contesting the next election independently, as it does not want to be impacted by the rumblings of the anti-BJP incumbency.

The outcome in Bhandara-Gondia, which has gone to the NCP-Cong combine, will also help rein in the 'pan-Maharashtra' aspirations of Fadnis, said media sources. Post 2014 election, the BJP has made concerted efforts to be seen and treated as the dominant party; the Sena sees in this a devious BJP ploy to share the political space with its ally on its own terms.
